DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

4. Claim 7 provides for the use of polymer compositions, but, since the claim does not set forth any steps involved in the method/process, it is unclear what method/process applicant is intending to encompass. A claim is indefinite where it merely recites a use without any active, positive steps delimiting how this use is actually practiced.

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed recitation of a use, without setting forth any steps involved in the process, results in an improper definition of a process, i.e., results in a claim which is not a proper process claim under 35 U.S.C. 101. See for example Ex parte Dunki, 153 USPQ 678 (Bd.App. 1967) and Clinical Products, Ltd. v. Brenner, 255 F. Supp. 131, 149 USPQ 475 (D.D.C. 1966).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 1796

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Matsumura et al, US Patent No. 4,910,265.

See Examples 24-26 wherein 318 parts of diphenyl isophthalate and 122 parts of m-xylylenediamine (compounds which are thought to be obvious reactants to form a copolyamide) were charged into a reactor equipped with a stirrer, and the mixture was heated to 260 degree C .in a stream of nitrogen. The phenol formed was evaporated out of the system. After 60 minutes, 40 parts of 4, 4'-diaminodiphenylmethane was added to the reaction product, and further reacted for 60 minutes. The resulting polymer had a viscosity of 0.22 and a heat distortion temperature of 181.degree. C. Then, 100 parts of the polymer and 2,2,-m-phenylenebis (5,6-dihydro-4H-1,3-oxazine) in the amount indicated in Table 5 were melt-mixed at 260 degree C. in a twin-screw extruder.

2. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Matsumura et al, US Patent No. 4,910,265 as applied to claims 1-7 above and further in view of Harashina et al, PCT/JP02/12405 equivalent to US PG Pub 2004/0254270. The PG Pub reference is used for translation. The Japanese reference is not submitted herewith.

Harashina et al discloses polyester series resin or a polyamide series resin I composition comprising a flame retardant and a flame retardant assistant compound that may be an oxazole corresponding to those of applicant's claims. The patented components are used in amounts overlapping the presently claimed amounts. The compositions are produced by extrusion molding. See paragraphs 0325, 0337, 0338, 0339, 0341, 0384 and claims 1 and 13.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to extrude the compositions in a single or twin screw extruder at a temperature of 100 degrees C. in the manner taught by Harashina et al.
